Key Club Comes C

By Jim Albaugh

On October 2, eighteen boys met in Mac-Hall to form a Key Club at Columbia High School. At this date the club now numbers forty-seven members, and is looked upon as a valuable asset to the school and community.

Park Cleanup

On December 2, twenty-seven Key Clubbers spent a Saturday afternoon cleaning up Columbia playfield. Three garbage cans of glass were removed at this time.

Since much work still needs to has set February 23 for their second cleanup. The building, slab, and playground equipment levy for the P. T. A.

will be painted and the fences and fireplaces will be repaired.

An informal evening is planned with popcorn and hot chocolate to be served. The speaker has not yet been decided on, but after the speaker the girls will split into smaller groups. The small groups will discuss activities, fellowship, fund raising activities, and Girls' League procedures and problems.

The Idea Exchange is slated to last about an hour and a half. Besides the speaker and refreshments, there will be entertainment from among the members of the various Girls' Leagues. are in charge of entertainment for presentative calls for them.

Shari Johnson, Girls' League Activity Manager, stated, "This is the first time anything like this has been tried between the schools; we hope it will go over well." She also stated: "The primary purpose of the evening is to get girls in other schools to know each other."

The presidents of the various Girls' Leagues are Robbie Faulds from Kennewick, Natalie Natchman from Pasco, and Donna Kirz from Richland. The other chairmen not already mentioned are Roxanne Copeland - Refreshments, Connie Leyson-Publicity Manager, and Shari Johnson General Manager.

fans support appreciated

At the height of the basketball season, nearly every school takes a critical look at school spirit. After this past weekend, it appears evident that Richland does not need to worry about the stamina of cheering from students and adults for their team.

Some schools, however, should examine the amount of support they give their teams when out-of-town. Not once this year has a Bomber team had to worry about whether or not someone would be present to back them.

Even at Wenatchee during the football season, in almost unbearable weather, ardent students and adults with-stood the cold to watch the Bombers. Someone was there. groes througho

At Walla Walla this past weekend, it would have been hard too look at the crowd and try to determine which school had more fans. More times than not, Richland ends up having approximately the same amount of rooters as the home school.

When Wenatchee came to Richland on Saturday, there was no one in evidence to support the Panthers except their Junior Varsity squad. It must have been very depressing.

Maybe this is why the Richland Bombers in any sport are always trying and most often winning. There is always someone there-to care.

This is due to the fact that housing is still segregated to a great extent (especially in the Southern States). The problem of getting students to and from school was left up to the state and local authorities in many cases, causing many problems. Some states provided buses for Negro students even though many whites disapproved, claiming that the busing was "unconstitutional."

Failure To Communicate

In some areas of student relations there is often a failure to communicate. Negroes and whites do not always use the same terms of slang and expression. Also there is sometimes a feeling of inferiority among Negro students who have attended segregated schools in the past. This is due to the fact that these students probably received a poor education

In the Novem-ber 1967 issue of

One student in the south said, "In my school, cliques seldom cross racial lines." Racial forth a little extra effort to leave lines have been crossed in many schools through athletic programs and other school activities. When racial barriers fall between participants, it often results in lasting friendships between Negro and white students.

What can white and Negro students at Col-High do to maintain good relations? First of all they should both be rational. In other words, students shouldn't let their prejudices run away with them. Negros and whites should feel free to communicate, either through talking in class, joining clubs, or participating in sports or other activities. Also white students shouldn't be afraid to recognize the fact that when a person is in a minority group things can get pretty lonely at

PERSONAL FOULS

By Bill Portch

This week PERSONAL FOULS will attempt to get away from the standard trivia of former columns. Generally, pre-vious articles have been solely devoted to cute little incidents and trite happenings of Columbia High, which were somehow twisted into relating to sports. However, the standard format was radically altered last week with a short biography of Walla Walla's very own Mike Murr. In the non-everending striving for progress and improvement, PERSONAL FOULS presents an exclusive interview Chuck Madison.

For the illiterate few who don't know, Chuck Madison is a forward and the captain and general all-around leader of the Pasco Bulldogs basketball team. He was also the quarterback 24-11 lead at the end of the first and captain of Pasco's football team.

At the opening of the season Pasco wasn't expected to go far. A new coach and the players' inexperience were listed as the main reasons. Yet they now show off the repeated attempts.

as the main reasons. Yet they now show an 8-2 season record. Why? According to Madison, "It's the first time in three years we've really worked as a team. Besides, we didn't have Dick (Johnson) playing with us then." Dick Johnson, guard, now leads the league in scoring and holds a 22.9 average.

New coach Don Munson had predicted a "deliberate, ball-control" style for his team. But "it's obvious you'll have to run in this league," says Madison. "And we'll almost have to run a little more against Richland."

Sophomore star Ron Howard is someone who Madison nearly raves about. "He's a lot better than (Larry) Jackson (Pasco All-Conference center of two years ago). As a sophomore I'd compare him above anyone in the league. I think he's better than any varsity player in the Conference last year. And he just improves every single day.

Concerning the game tonight, Madison says, "I hope both our teams are healthy. Then the one that wins the game will be the better one, and there won't be any-(uh) -

Finally, Madison had an opinion of Walla Walla. "You know if you go to Walla Walla you've got to play two

Walla Downs Bombers

Since the time that the Varsity basketball squad were sopho-mores, they had not won a game at Walla Walla and the jinx remained last Friday as the Blue Devils won 67-56.

The badly undermanned team played without the services of Jim Albaugh, Bob Utecht, George Kinney, who were all out with the flu. Mike Murr led all the scoring with 20 points, al-though many of his shots were checked or just plain missed.

The Blue Devils jumped to a quarter but the Bombers fought back to trail by four at the half.

Fritz Strankman and Bill Henniger were the only Bombers in double figures with 19 and 12 points respectively.

Saturday Richland stopped its two-game losing streak with their trouncing of the impotent Wenatchee Panthers 79-53. The Bombers
